

SUMMER SCHOOL

in Ophthalmology

for medical students and junior doctors

Venue: Moorfields Eye Hospital
City Road, London, United Kingdom

Offered by:

The Institute of Ophthalmology, University College London

Dates: 22 – 29 July 2015

This certificated course is aimed at medical students, junior doctors and others who are interested in ophthalmology as a potential career choice. It will be presented by experienced ophthalmologists and scientists and will cover interesting clinical and groundbreaking scientific aspects of the discipline. The course will be offered in a mixed format including a practical day where students will be taught to use specialist equipment on patients who have common ophthalmic problems. There will be plenty of discussion sessions and a poster session for student presentations.

To register your interest or obtain further information, please email l.kilpert@ucl.ac.uk or a.snowling@ucl.ac.uk